

FIGHT RAGES ABOUT MUKDEN

Japanese Began the Fighting, with Five Desperate Attacks Upon the Russian Line.

RESULTS ARE AS YET IN DOUBT

Dispatches From Rome Announce That the Fight Is Being Fought Desperately by the Japanese Armies.

[Special by Scripps-McIntee.]
Rome, Sept. 30.—The Agenzia Libero has a dispatch from Mukden reporting that a battle about that city began yesterday. The Japanese opened hostilities by delivering an attack from five different directions, all of which were very desperate. Kuropatkin sends word to St. Petersburg that the battle is imminent and that he has just finished reviewing several detachments of troops and has conferred the St. George's cross upon eighteen officers for gallant service in the battle of Liaoyang.

Advance Against Mukden.
The Japanese center and left wing are reported to be advancing simultaneously against Mukden. At the same time the Japanese right wing is engaged in desperate fighting against the Russian left in an endeavor to turn it and obtain a position to the north of Kuropatkin's main force, the Japanese object being to cut the railroad and prevent Kuropatkin's use of it in retreat in case he tries to avoid a general battle that would involve over 500,000 men. Details of the actual condition of affairs, however, are unobtainable.

Russians to Yield Town.
Telegraphing from Newchwang, Sept. 29, the Daily Mail's correspondent says:

SLAVS RETREATING FROM THE JAPANESE ADVANCE

Kuroki Has Completed His Strategic Move, and the Russians Are in a Trap.

Simintun, Sept. 30.—The capture of Da pass, news of which reaches here today, makes the success of the Japanese to outflank the Russian position from the east much easier and will permit the Japanese to threaten the Russian position from various points. Oyama already has begun the forward move along his center and left. Oku's divisions are pushing rapidly to the northeast along the Hun valley and his advance guard is reported within ten miles of Mukden and he is meeting with hardly any opposition.

The Russian cavalry has been extremely active, especially along the eastern front, during the past few days. Gen. Rennenkampf's successful dash on the rear of Kuroki's army has done much to hearten the Russians.

Reinforcements are constantly reaching the Japanese and the best estimates now place not less than 250,000 men in the Japanese armies which are converging on Mukden. The Russian commander also is being reinforced from the north and now has at Tieling and Mukden in the neighborhood of 200,000 men of all arms.

Capture of Da Pass.
St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—News has been received here from Mukden to the effect that the Japanese at last have taken the offensive. They have captured Da pass and are pressing on Gen. Kuropatkin's left flank. The war office is unable to confirm this news officially, because Kuropatkin's dispatches are following the emperor, who is traveling to the south of Russia. It is believed the Russians abandoned Da pass without serious resistance. Several other passes of the Da range, east of Bentlaputza, twenty miles southeast of Mukden, are also in the hands of the Japanese.

Kuropatkin is evidently drawing in his forces to the less mountainous country northwest, where he may decide to give battle. Meanwhile sharp fighting is regarded as imminent southeast of Mukden, whence the Japanese are expected to deliver their main attack, the flank movement from the west being of secondary importance.

DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID TO ESCAPE ASYLUM CELL
Mad Woman Shrewdly Outwits the Officers Who Come to Take Her to Hospital for Insane.

Elkhart, Ind., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Matie Cullar, rather than go to the Longcliff insane hospital and leave her three young sons, drank carbolie acid and died within a few minutes. "Forgive me, father," were the last words she uttered. They were addressed to her aged father, Rev. D. P. Miller, a minister of the Dunkard church, who lives north of Notre Dame.

Mr. Miller and Mrs. Cullar's father-in-law, Simon Cullar of South Bend, had accompanied Sheriff Robertson and Matron Miller of South Bend to this city to escort Mrs. Cullar to the Longcliff asylum. Trouble was anticipated, as it was known she had two revolvers and had threatened her life. But she seemed quite cordial and unconcerned until told to prepare to leave. She then implored time to see her children, who were called from school.

While waiting for the children she made various pretexts to go to different rooms, but Sheriff Robertson followed her. Finally she was asked for her revolvers, which she cheerfully handed over. She then besought the privilege of changing her clothes and Mrs. Miller accompanied her.

As she stepped to the dresser to comb her hair she jerked a phial of carbolie acid from her waist and drank most of the contents before Mrs. Miller could reach her. The bottle from her

SEEKS AID IN AMERICA FOR CITIZENS OF CONGO

Englishman Declares the People There Are Practically Enslaved Under Legalized System.

New York, Sept. 30.—Secretary Morel of the Congo Reform society, who arrived here on the steamer Baltic, gave the following explanation regarding his mission to this country:

"For many years past reports of gross outrages upon the natives of the Congo by the Congo government have been received in England. The whole system is virtually systematized and legalized outrage, and the whole people are practically enslaved.

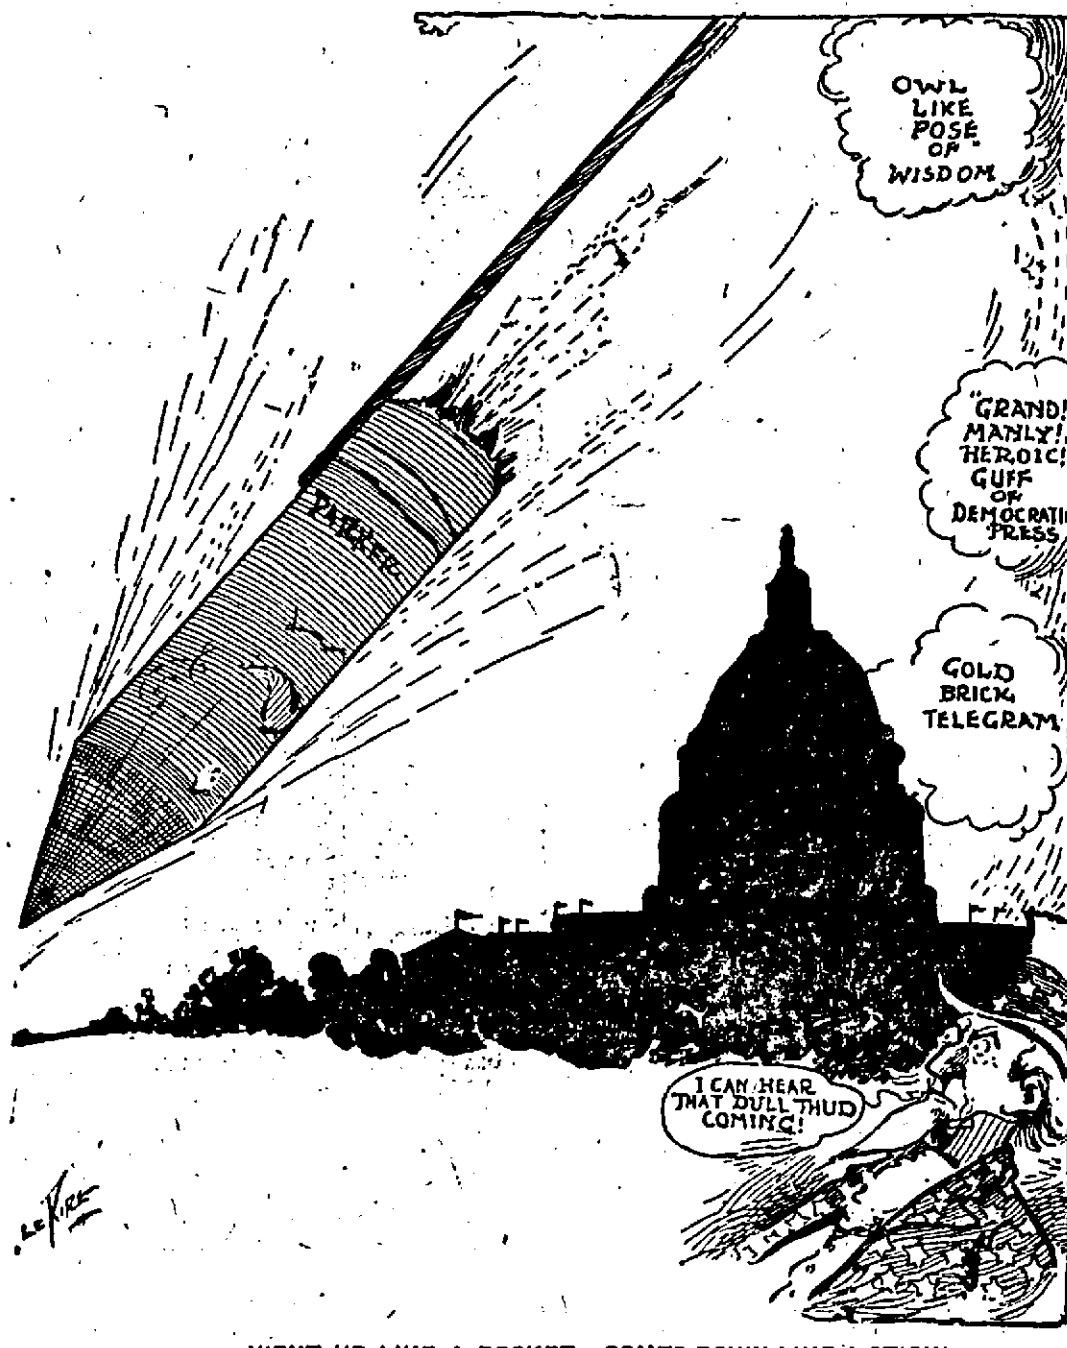

"Twelve months ago and again last June the house of commons expressed its unanimous condemnation of the methods in force in the Congo state. We feel in England that great progress may be made in the suppression of the scandals that are now disgracing civilization in the Congo if the people of this country can be induced to take an interest in the matter.

"This memorial is signed by many influential people in England, including the earl of Aberdeen. We have in this memorial made several suggestions to your president as to what course and action we should like to have him take."

LARGE NUMBER OF STUDENTS NOW

This Year Will See Three Thousand Mark Passed with Ease.

[Special to The Gazette.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—The fall semester of the University of Wisconsin began Wednesday with an attendance which promises to eclipse that of last year. At least 200 more students have registered this year than at the corresponding time last year. About 2,225 have registered. Of these 1,150 are in the college of letters and science, 125 in the college of law, and 700 in the college of engineering. The others are in the school of agriculture and pharmaceutical department. More than 400 freshmen have registered for gymnastic work. The annual class rush between the sophomores and the newcomers will come off October 6. The university faculty will be strengthened this fall by 42 new members who were chosen by the board of regents last June. Of these five are professors, 14 assistants and 22 are instructors.

RAISING FUNDS FOR THE CREWS

Wisconsin Must Not Lack Boats and Equipment for Next Year's Racing.

[Special to The Gazette.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—Earl B. Roscoe of Milwaukee, commodore of the university crew department is determined that the crews next year shall not lack for racing shells and paraphernalia and he has started the work of raising funds already with gratifying success. He has caused the freshmen to be given an opportunity of subscribing cash for the crews as soon as they arrive in the university city. Already from this source $300 has been raised. Heretofore the crew subscriptions have been delayed until the spring.

WIFE MURDERER WAS HUNG TODAY

Cut His Wife's Throat and Then Tried to Commit Suicide—Made No Statement.

[Special by Scripps-McIntee.]

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Frank Lewandowski, a wife murderer, was hanged at 10:30 this morning in the county jail. Two priests accompanied him to the gallows. He made no statement. Lewandowski cut his wife's throat and then tried to kill himself, but failed.

HOMESICK GIRL TOOK HER LIFE

Fifteen Year Old Frances Parkhurst Drowned Herself in Lake Michigan.

[Special by Scripps-McIntee.]

Chicago, Sept. 30.—The body of Frances Parkhurst, aged fifteen, who was missing last night from Ferry Hall, Lake Forest, and for whom hundreds of students and soldiers searched all night, was found this morning in Lake Michigan. All indications point to suicide. The girl came from Danvers, Ill., three weeks ago to enter college. It is believed she was homesick.

LIABILITIES ARE ON THE DECREASE

Bank Examiner Bergh Makes an Official Statement Regarding the State Banks.

[Special to The Gazette.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—According to the report of Commissioner of Banking M. C. Bergh there are a decline of more than $2,000,000 in the resources and liabilities of the state banks of Wisconsin during the past three months. This decrease is due to the fact that two large banks at La Crosse have nationalized during the period covered by the report and are not included as the commissioner of banking has none of the national banks under his supervision. The changing of these two banks from state to national took out of the state bank report a large sum but it was made up in part by the addition of two new state banks and by an encouraging growth in the volume of banking business of the state.

SENATOR HOAR PASSED AWAY

The End of His Long and Useful Career Came This Morning.

WILL BE BURIED ON MONDAY NEXT

Last of the Old School of Statesmen—A Noted Senator—Was Prominent in the Affairs of State for Years.

[Special by Scripps-McIntee.]
Worcester, Mass., Sept. 30.—The funeral service of Senator Hoar, who died at 1:35 this morning, will be held in the Church of the Unity in this city on Monday at 2:30. It is probable Rev. Edward Hale will officiate.

Senator Hoar, from Massachusetts, died at his home in this city at 1:35 o'clock Friday morning, aged 78 years. The end followed a period of unconsciousness that had continued since early Tuesday, and came so gently that only the attending physicians were aware of the exact moment of dissolution.

The attending physicians despaired of the senator's life six weeks ago, but such was the vitality exhibited by the patient that even they were surprised, and the public was at times led to cherish a faith in an ultimate recovery.

On Sept. 25, however, all hope was abandoned after a last unsuccessful attempt to administer medicine and nourishment. Brief lucid intervals were followed by longer durations of unconsciousness until Tuesday morning, when the venerable statesman sank into a state of coma from which all efforts to rouse him proved futile.

There were present at the bedside when death came the senator's son, Gen. Rockwood Hoar; his daughter, Mary Hoar, and Dr. Warren R. Olman, who for weeks has been in almost constant attendance upon the senator.

Senator Hoar had been in ill health since last winter, and even when attending the sessions of the senate he was obliged to exercise extreme care lest his exertions should overcome him. At that time he was troubled with lumbago, and the death of his wife in Washington proved such a blow that he never recovered entirely from its effects.

HENRY PAYNE IS A VERY SICK MAN; HAD BAD NIGHT

The Postmaster-General Is Critically Ill—Dr. Magruder Is the Attending Physician.

[Special by Scripps-McIntee.]

Washington, Sept. 30.—At 9:50 this morning it was reported that Postmaster General Payne had a very restless night and is very weak. His condition is serious. He is resting quietly this morning and free from pain. The patient is unable to take any nourishment. The heart action is feeble and irregular. Dr. Magruder remained at the bedside all night.

The attack occurred early Thursday morning, when Private Secretary Whitney, who is residing at the Arlington Annex, noticed that Mr. Payne's breathing was labored, and he immediately summoned Dr. G. L. Magruder, the family physician, who found the distinguished patient in a critical condition.

Physicians Despair.
His life was despaired of during the night and the early part of the day, but he rallied. Thursday night he was resting easier, but practically all hope has been abandoned and his family has been summoned to his bedside.

Since his return from Wisconsin the postmaster general has been suffering with a slight cold, according to a statement given out at the post-office department. He was at his desk Saturday morning, but returned to his hotel in the afternoon. He did not appear at the department at all on Monday, but spent a short time at the department Tuesday morning and attended the cabinet meeting, returning to his hotel in the afternoon. On Wednesday he was at the department a short time in the morning, but did not return after luncheon, and since has been confined to his hotel.

Keep His Condition Secret.
The extremely critical condition of the postmaster general was carefully concealed until it was feared it could not be safely done any longer.

Dr. P. M. Rixey, surgeon general of the navy, was called in consultation with Dr. Magruder and the following bulletin was made public Thursday night:

"The postmaster general has not been feeling well for several days and recently decided symptoms of heart trouble developed. These were severe during last night and the early portion of today. He responded to the remedies employed and is resting easier tonight."

Powerful restoratives were administered by the physicians and they took effect. Dr. Magruder remained at the hotel all night.

Mrs. Payne is Prostrated.
Mrs. Payne is almost prostrated by the acknowledged seriousness of her husband's condition.

The announcement of the critical condition of the postmaster general came as an absolute surprise to his friends and business associates in Washington. It was known for several days that he had not been feeling well, but ever since he became a member of the president's cabinet his health has not been good, and it was not expected the attack would prove to be more than indigestion or a recurrence of the malady, epilepsy, from which he has been a lifelong sufferer.

NO DECISION HANDED DOWN BY SUPREME COURT AS YET

Unless It Is Given Tomorrow, It Will Be Put Over Until October 18—Is Anxiously Awaited.

[Special by Scripps-McIntee.]

Madison, Sept. 30.—There was no decision in the La Follette case today. Unless the court hands down a decision tomorrow morning there will be no decision on the questions involved until October 18th. The leading politicians on both sides are at a loss to understand the delay. It may be possible that the decision has not been reached or it may be possible that Chief Justice Caswell has not finished the findings, as it is conceded he is to hand down the decision.

BEET FACTORY IS NEARLY COMPLETE

WILL HAVE STEAM UP ON MON. DAY NEXT.

WONDERFUL FEAT PERFORMED

Moving Factory From Dresden, Canada, and Erecting It Here In Five Months.

To remove an immense factory piece by piece from Dresden, Canada, and transport by vessel and train over fifteen hundred miles and then erect it again and all in five months is a wonderful undertaking. Yet this has been accomplished by the Rock County Sugar company and on Monday next the plant will be in running order, just as announced last spring when the factory first talked of coming here. Few people in the city know the immense amount of work that has been done during the summer months, nor the number of men who have been employed almost constantly putting up this plant structure.

Hard Work. It has been hard work even for the four or five hundred men who have been constantly employed. It has given work to hundreds of Janesville men, has put money in circulation in Janesville, and hence has bettered the financial conditions of the community. There has been construction camps established near the grounds where the foreign labor has been quartered and a little village of itself sprang up on the Paul farm at the southern end of the city. When Theodore Hapke told the Rock county farmers the factory would be ready for the beets by October 1st it was doubted by many, but Monday next the factory opens and while not completed in every detail it is ready for work.

Machinery Connected. All the intricate machinery will be connected, the engine room ready and the big boilers with the proper steam up for starting the industry in southern Wisconsin, by Monday morning. The immense sheets for the reception of the beets are completed. Here is room for the deposits of hundreds of loads of the beets as they are shipped in by outside growers or drawn in by wagon by farmers. It is a plant barn-like structure and will soon be teeming with life as the beets begin to arrive.

Not Completed. None of the other buildings are really completed. The framework on the north end of the main building is no farther along than it was a month ago and no windows have as yet been put in, but these will come in a few weeks. Work in this line can be continued after the beet crop begins to arrive and actual work on making sugar has begun. Work on the office building is progressing rapidly and while the windows are in there is still much to be done. However it will be soon be finished and will be one of the most complete and best equipped factory offices in the state. The cooper shop was the first completed and is now being used for a store room until it will be needed as a cooper shop. The office building is separate from the main buildings, as is the cooper shop.

Giant-like. The buildings are giant-like in proportions. When viewed from a railway train they look like a city all by itself and with hundreds of busy men working there daily has created considerable talk among travelers. The majority of the bosses for the different departments have arrived from Dresden, Canada, and from Bay City, Michigan, where Captain Davidson has other factories. When completed it will give employment to many Janesville young men. Mr. Theodore Hapke has been the contractor of the factory, and great credit is due him for the work he has done.

Theodore Hapke. When the Oxnard people of New York first commenced their operations in beet sugar in the United States some fifteen years ago, Mr. Hapke then a resident of Germany and an expert in the matter of beet sugar industry came to this country to assume charge of construction and has since that time been interested in the erection of fifteen factories. Mr. Hapke understands every phase of the beet sugar business from the planting of the seed to the manufacture of sugar and the building of factories. He has secured capital for the erection of two more large factories in this state, their location will depend upon the district which produces the best beets. Mr. Hapke says he considers Wisconsin the best state in the union for the sugar beet industry and has moved his headquarters to this state from the east. Mr. Hapke is removing his family to Chicago for the winter but expects himself to remain in Janesville until New Year's.

OUT OF TOWN CAMPS ARE TO BE INVITED

Royal Neighbors Will Hold Banquet for the Lodges From Rockford and Evansville.

half head. It has been decided by the local lodge of Royal Neighbors to invite the lodges from Evansville and Rockford here November 9. No definite arrangements have as yet been made but it is planned to have an elaborate banquet with program following. This will not be the only social event of this kind that the R. N. A. will have during the winter, but it is altogether probable that all the camps in this vicinity will be the guests of the Janesville camp at different times.

GIRLS WILL HAVE ATHLETIC CLASS

Miss Fletcher Will Direct Sixty Five Young Ladies of High School in Swedish Athletics.

Girls' athletics will be taken up in good earnest this year by the young ladies of the high school. Besides the regular class, school and second teams of basket ball there will be an athletic class, meeting twice a week. Sixty-five girls, the major portion recruited from the two lower classes, have already signified their intention of joining. Miss Mabel Fletcher, instructor in botany and physical science, will have charge of the class. The work will not be physical culture but Swedish athletics and will meet twice a week in the gymnasium after school during the winter months. The first class will be the first week in November and the last will be in the last week of next April, when on account of the weather it will be possible to take all the exercise necessary out of doors. Each member of the class will provide herself with a regular gymnasium suit and a room for lockers and dressing purposes will be fixed up in the basement of the high school building. No one will be compelled to join the class, but all those who become members will have to attend regularly as in other classes of the school and will not be allowed to come in once or twice to see how they like it and then drop out.

BIDS FOR SCHOOL TO BE OPENED MONDAY

Contract for Garfield Building Will Not Be Awarded Unless Bids Are Lower.

Bids for the proposed Garfield school to be located at the corner of south Jackson and Union streets have again been advertised for by the board of education after a re-auditing of the original plans, because no bid was below the amount appropriated the former time when the bids were advertised for and opened. At the meeting of the board next Monday night the new set of bids will be opened and the contract awarded some time next week if the bids are under the specified amount. If the contract is awarded the building can be so far completed that it will be ready for occupation by the first of January, otherwise completion this year is doubtful.

BEET BY PRODUCTS USEFUL TO FARMER

Molasses and Pulp Makes the Most Excellent Kind of Feed for Cattle.

As with many of the factories that use the products of the soil the beet sugar factory has its by-products that are of use to the farmer. The two by-products are pulp and molasses, or that part of the sugar which does not crystallize. The Massachusetts Agricultural College has already made feeding and digestive experiments of this food and arrives at the following conclusions: "1. Molasses-beet-pulp, a kind dried residue of beet pulp and molasses, is low in protein and very high in carbohydrates. It differs chemically from corn meal in having more ash, a much larger amount of fiber, and only traces of fat. The carbohydrates of corn meal consist principally of starch, while those of molasses-beet-pulp are composed largely of sugar, pentosans, and fiber. It is slightly less digestible than corn meal.

"2. It keeps well, will absorb large quantities of added water, has a slightly laxative effect, has proved a palatable and healthful food for dairy stock and satisfactory as a component of a grain ration for the production of milk. It can also probably be used with good results for fattening, and as a partial grain feed for horses.

"3. Because of its coarse mechanical condition it will serve as a diluent for the heavier concentrates.

"4. It is rather inferior in nutritive effect to corn meal (probably 10 per cent).

"5. It was offered at $22 to $23 a ton at retail in Massachusetts during the winter of 1903-1904, as compared with corn meal at $25 to $26 a ton, and these figures express approximately the relative commercial values of the two feeds, based upon the nutritive material contained in them.

"6. The above opinions concerning the character and quality of the molasses-beet-pulp are based upon the supposition that the quality of the manufactured product remains unchanged."

It is gratifying that Uncle Ike has seen the errors of his ways and is bent upon making amends for the past. But as evidence of his conversion, those that are already saved will expect him to rise up from the mourners' bench and give his testimony and make a clean breast of it.

CALLS ATTENTION TO THE SNAKES

Snake Editor of The Recorder Should Ask Permission To Feed the Reptiles.

If the snake editor of the Recorder desires to confirm the snake story published in the Gazette Wednesday evening, the Milwaukee Sentinel, Milwaukee Free Press, Chicago Chronicle, and Chicago Tribune Thursday morning and the Evening Wisconsin and Milwaukee News last evening, he might walk up to the North-Western passenger depot at noon or evening and investigate for himself the dress suit case containing the snakes. Mr. Gleason, the representative of the North-Western road in Janesville, is anxious that someone should care for the snakes and if the Recorder snake editor desires to confirm the story and has a fellow feeling for the reptiles, Mr. Gleason would doubtless be glad to allow him to feed the snakes until they are claimed. Meanwhile they are in a window of the area with the dress suit case tightly closed waiting an owner. A little investigation and not so free a use of the scissors might keep off the parasites that seems to be approaching the afore-said snake editor.

WHY TRACE OUT RELATIONSHIP

The Madison Journal Takes a Fall Out of the Grumblers on Cassoday.

Disgruntled republicans who are complaining that Chief Justice Cassoday sat in judgment during the hearing of the factional state fight might read with interest the following editorial from the Madison State Journal on the subject:

Will some stalwart paper point out, with logic or reason, why Judge Siebecker, a member of the supreme court, should not sit in the factional republican case before that tribunal because he is a brother-in-law of Gov. La Follette, and by the same token attempt to justify the continuance on the bench during the trial of Chief Justice Cassoday, who in a brother-in-law of Ed. Cox, the latter a $50,000 federal office-holder by the advice of Senator Spooner, a Virginius Censor.

That's nothing, Munson! Justice Dodge is related on his mother's side to a man in Milwaukee county who knows the Kronshage family, and in Justice Marshall's family used to be a hired girl who once worked for the man charged with having struck Billy Patterson. Justice Winslow has a brindle-colored cat that looked much like a cat owned by a game warden in Burnett county; and everybody knows that Chief Justice Cassoday once passed through Dunn county on a night train—right in A. R. Hall's neighborhood. Judge Siebecker once went fishing with a man whose uncle on his mother's side—but what's the use? In these complicated days it would be difficult to find a man competent to be judge who had no affiliations.

Even Munson himself started for the Spanish war and got as far as the photographer's gallery.

GOLF CLUB KITCHEN IS TO BE CLOSED AFTER OCT. 1 And Pienickers Thereafter Will Have to Provide Their Own Dishes.

The golf club kitchen will be closed after October 1. It has been decided by the committee that the utensils and appointments will be in much better condition next spring if this plan is pursued. Those holding picnic suppers next month will have to provide their own dishes.

THE PERKY LITTLE VELVET BOW
The girl with clever fingers can readily make for herself any number of the smart little bows, fascettes and such from the scraps of velvets and ribbons that accumulate in the bureau drawers. These are best made up wired at both edges, the milliner's wire runs in the shallow hem. This, straight length of velvet and ribbon can then be twisted into loops and ends and bent to the most becoming angle. The bow in the illustration is so fashioned and centered with a cut-steel buckle. The hair is dressed high, and around the knot on the crown of the head there passes a shaped piece, likewise in cut steel. Combs are not an accompaniment of such coiffure.

PYTHIANS GAVE A DELIGHTFUL DANCE

At Central Hall. Last Evening—Well Attended and the Appearances Most Pleasing.

Oriental Lodge No. 22 of the Knights of Pythias, gave the first of its series of dancing parties last evening and it proved to be a delightful affair in every particular. Central hall was most tastefully decorated for the occasion with boughs of autumn leaves and palms and Chairman W. A. Stevens of the arrangements committee received many compliments for his excellent work in this particular. Smith & Kneff's orchestra of five pieces including Geo. Hatch who used for the first time his new $750 harp presided over the destinies of the dancers and discoursed the finest music that has been heard at similar festivities for many a day. Chairman Stevens was assisted in the arrangements by Thomas E. Welch, W. O. Newhouse, and H. H. Baldwin. The floor committee consisted of A. J. Harris, F. E. Jackson, M. O. Mount, and B. M. Palmer.

PRICE OF COTTON TAKES BIG JUMP

YARN ADVANCED A CENT PER POUND IN A MONTH.

SOUTHERN COMBINE MEETS

Janesville Firm Independent Advance in Price is Laid to Strong Market, by T. O. Howe.

Owing to the increased demand for cotton yarns, goods and bating in both domestic and foreign markets the price has taken a decided jump in the last month or so. Mr. T. O. Howe, of the Rock River Cotton company, said yesterday in speaking of the market: "The price of yarns has advanced fully a cent a pound in the last month. There was a slump in the market during July and the fore art of August, but as we were not running during this period in our bating department we are selling bating at the same price that we were when the fire occurred in July. The raise in price is due to the great demand for cotton for both home and export trade, and we are unable to turn out as much yarn and bating as we are able to sell. We are not in the combine but every point that cotton has raised in our selling price is due to the strong market at the present."

Southern Combine. This combine referred to is an association of all the cotton manufacturers in the southern states. They held an important meeting in Charlotte, North Carolina, recently, and after being in session four hours unanimously decided to advance price of hard yarns. A schedule was submitted and adopted, making a decided increase in the prices. An advisory committee was appointed to assist in carrying out the object of the meeting. The spinners entered into an agreement that each mill have one selling house, that may be required to sign an agreement not to speculate in the product. All the spinners present, representing every important yarn mill in the south with a total of 477,499 spindles, signed the following iron clad agreement on prices:

4-2 ply, 16-2; 14-2 ply, 18c; 21-2 ply, 21c; 8-2 ply, 17c; 16-2 ply, 18-2c; 26-2 ply, 21-2c; 30-2 ply, 22-2c; 12-2 ply, 17-3c; 4-4c; 4-2 ply, 28c; 22-2 ply, 20-1-2c.

It was the sense of the manufacturers present that before a cut should be made in this schedule, every mill in the south would be shut down until prices were accepted. All big commission houses in New York had their representatives at the meeting. The radical action is expected to have an immediate and telling effect on the market.

COMMITTEE TOLD TO BUY THE SITE

Seems Now Definitely Assured That New Methodist Church Will Be Built on Franklin and Pleasant Streets.

At a meeting of the quarterly conference of the Central M. E. church last evening the purchasing committee consisting of Dr. F. T. Richardson, Dr. E. E. Loomis, and Mr. Bennington, was instructed to buy a site for the new church edifice. An option had been secured on property having 132 feet frontage, both on Franklin and Pleasant streets. The property is at present owned by A. McDougall of this city and F. R. Burrell of Chicago. It is now occupied by two frame dwellings on Pleasant street belonging to the former, and a leaf tobacco warehouse on Franklin street belonging to the latter. The new edifice will be built next spring and will cost $30,000. It is understood that the cost of the site will be in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Instead of making Chicago the basing point for rates on grain and grain products the western and eastern lines decided recently to renew the joint traffic agreement. This action, the western traffic men say, will be of incalculable advantage to Chicago as a grain market.

It is understood that President Zimmerman of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton road will retire from the presidency of the combined system in which event Mr. Harding would succeed him as president. It is stated that A. Patinarch will remain traffic manager for the Pere Marquette and A. H. McLeod traffic manager for the Dayton. Rumor also has it that the name of the new allied system will be the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and Pere Marquette System Great Central Route.

T. B. Boyd, general freight agent of the Rock Island, has announced his acceptance of the position of traffic manager for the board of trade. His duties as such will begin Oct. 1, and he will be expected to see that Chicago's interests with respect to grain and grain products are preserved by the railroads.

James J. Hill, W. T. Clough and H. M. Grover, of the Great Northern, were in conference with President A. J. Cassan of the Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. They declined to state what matters were discussed.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpelide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair? No, they do not, but Herpelide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpelide stands the "test of use." It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpelide Co., Detroit, Mich.

VERDICT OF THE PARTY

From the report of the Committee on Credentials to the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, which was unanimously adopted by that convention, June 22, 1904.

Your committee report it to be their final judgment that the convention which elected said John C. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Babcock and Emil Baensch as delegates at large, to this convention from the state of Wisconsin WAS THE REGULAR CONVENTION OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN WISCONSIN, and that the delegates elected by it are the regular elected delegates at large from the state of Wisconsin to the republican convention, and, as such, are entitled to seats in this convention.

THE PRICE.

The Wall Street Journal thus clearly illustrates how stocks are manipulated at the great money centers:

A butter merchant bought two firkins of butter from a farmer. The butter was all of the same quality, made by the same hands, from the same milk. But the merchant displayed the two firkins for sale, putting over one the sign "30 cents a pound" and over the other "50 cents a pound." Soon after a woman entered and asked the price of butter. "I have some here," said the merchant, "of excellent quality for 30 cents a pound."

"But," replied the woman, "I see you have some for 50 cents a pound. I always buy the best. Give me a pound of that."

And the merchant who had paid only 20 cents a pound for the butter, pocketed with a chuckle of delight the 30 cents profit which he had obtained for butter that he had been willing to sell for ten cents profit.

This is no fable. It is a true story, and it illustrates a great truth. The price has become a certificate of quality. If a high price is attached to an article it is regarded as evidence of its superiority. The butter merchant in putting a 50-cent price on 30-cent butter robbed his customers. He lied just as much as if he had actually said to them that this butter is much better than the other, when in fact both are of the same quality.

In Wall Street there is a constant effort made by market manipulation to put a 50-cent price on the 30-cent article, and there can be no doubt that it is dishonest. An ancient philosopher once said that the value of a thing depended on what another man is willing to pay for it, and in a sense this is economically true. But practically the selling of an article for a high price may be dishonest even if there are not merely one, but hundreds of persons, eager to pay that price for it.

A new issue of securities is to be marketed, or some one has a big block of an old issue that he wishes to get rid of. A skillful manipulator is employed, who proceeds to make a market for it. He uses this method and that, and by "wash sales" or "clever advertising" an artificial exploitation he succeeds in establishing a quotation for the security that invites attention. The investor says to himself: "That stock is advancing; it is selling above par."

It must be a good thing. I will buy some."

The quotation has thus been a recommendation of quality. The investor has been victimized as much as the woman was in paying 50 cents for 30-cent butter. It is true that the seller did not drag the buyer into the market and force him to purchase. It is true that the investor ought to have tested the value of the security, just as the woman ought to have tested the quality of the butter. But testing requires expert knowledge, and the majority of people are guided in their judgments by the price. It cannot be doubted that the reputation of Wall Street has from time to time suffered severely by reason of its manipulation of prices. Of course in the long run the stock market accurately measures true value. Manipulation after all is temporary. It is powerless to establish an enduring price. But during the time that its power is effective it inflicts many losses on innocent investors.

The only remedy for this is publicity. There is nothing which the manipulator dreads more than the fearless, independent organ of publicity. He strives hard to control it, and failing in that, he tries to deceive it, and thus the public which it serves.

Wall Street should deal sternly with all who display the 50-cent sign above the 30-cent article. There is no place in the world where the adage, "Honesty is the best policy," would pay better, and where publicity would achieve more, than in Wall Street. A big western merchant has this for his motto:

"Under no possible circumstances will this house sanction any word or deed of any employee designed to mislead a purchaser."

That would be a good sign to hang out in Wall Street—and live up to.

SENATOR QUARLES AT KENOSHA.

Senator Quarles addressed a large and representative republican audience at Kenosha last Wednesday night, and after discussing national affairs for an hour, he took up state affairs, and in a fair and unimpassioned manner told some truths that furnished food for thought.

Senator Quarles has been a republican all his life, and has been prominently identified with the party in the state for more than a quarter of a century. He is thoroughly familiar with the history of the party, and when he stated that Governor La Follette had no patent on his reform measure, he stated a fact.

The senator referred to his own record in the state legislature 25 years ago, when he advocated equal taxation and about every other measure for which the governor is contending, but the primary law.

He did not hesitate to declare that La Follette, in his mad ambition for office, had adopted methods which were not only disloyal, but which ostracized him from the party, and that he had no claim on the party for support.

In advocating the support of Cook for governor, in advance of the supreme court decision, the senator takes it for granted that the republican party will have a state ticket in the field, whatever may be the decision.

Mr. Jeffris takes the same position, and as the governor has already declared his intention of staying in the race regardless of decisions or consequences, it is safe to assume that the three cornered fight will be continued until settled at the polls.

Conditions have passed the stage of argument, and the bitterness of feeling which prevailed throughout the state has no parallel in the history of any northern state. It is idle to discuss responsibility for these conditions. They are not the result of a single campaign but are the culmination of errors which reach back for years in the history of the party.

The men who support the governor are enthusiastic and many of them sincere. The men who oppose him are honest in their convictions and determined in effort. It will be left for the court of public opinion to decide in November, and whatever the verdict may be the minority must be satisfied.

THE SEWERAGE QUESTION.

The people have discussed the question of sewerage for 10 these many years, and now that the preliminary work is at hand, it is perfectly natural that much interest should be manifest and many questions asked.

It is very evident from the small amount of work already accomplished that a long and tedious session will follow and that much money will be needed for the investment.

While it is not at all surprising that some people are worried, and others amazed, it is well to remember that the improvement has been long needed and that it will contribute to the value of property as well as the welfare of the city for all time to come.

As the work progresses there is some criticism offered which appears to be just, and to which the city can afford to give some attention. For instance the mains running into the residence district on the hill are only 8-inch mains. The complaint is made that these are too small, and that in less than five years they will need to be replaced by 12 or 15-inch mains.

The Gazette has it from the authority of men who know from experience that this is likely to be the case. Somebody has evidently made a mistake in the planning, and unless it is remedied in time, it will lead to endless expense and annoyance.

The smallest item of expense in sewerage construction is the pipe and it is extravagant waste, rather than economy, to lay a service pipe which is not large enough to meet requirements. If this is being done the committee in charge should see to it that the error is promptly corrected.

It would seem that while the streets are torn up that all connections so far as possible should be made. If every man who wants to connect with a main sewer is permitted to tear up the street at his pleasure there won't be a decent street in the town for the next ten years.

The republican administration found the money for the Panama canal, cut off $100,000,000 war tax, and still has a comfortable balance in the treasury. Cleveland borrowed $163,000,000 in four years to keep the ship of state afloat. That's the difference between republicanism and democracy from a business standpoint.

The Governor's Milwaukee organ reports with apparent glee that a lot of hoodlums attempted to break up Senator Whitehead's meeting at a little town in the western part of the state last Wednesday night. Such is La Folletteism.

Don't cross the stream until you get to it. It will be time enough to vote in November and when the time comes there will be a good republican bridge in sight.

The man who never writes a political letter, nor makes a political threat, is seldom called on to apologize.

The governorship in 1904 and the White House in 1908 is the ambition of Wisconsin's great reformer.

It is reported that Bryan has fled to Alaska.

FLOUR SALES ARE IMMENSE

Minneapolis Mill Disposes of 850 Carloads in a Single Day.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 30.—Vast quantities of flour are being shipped to all parts of the United States from Minneapolis and mills are enjoying a most prosperous run. Sales aggregating many thousands of barrels a day are reported. The world's record was completely eclipsed by the Washburn-Crosby company on Sept. 22, when 110,000 barrels, or about 850 car loads, of flour was sold, all but an insignificant fraction of it being for domestic consumption. All mills are running at full capacity at present, daily sales of the larger firms varying from 30,000 to 70,000 barrels.

SEEDS IN THE YARD STRINGS

Planted by the String—Many Modern Helps to the Farmers of Today.

St. Louis, Sept. 27.—When we were on the farm we bought garden-seeds by the package or by the quart. But the twentieth century gardener and farmer is going to buy them by the yard and instead of laboriously dropping them in hills or sowing them in rows he will reel off a string of them from a wheel and simply plant the string. When John was let into this secret of advanced scientific agriculture by the polite and long-suffering inventor of the process he merely murmured, "You're stringing me."

But there were the strings of seeds and there were boxes with tiny plants growing in them from this seeded string. Like everything else at this great exposition the demonstration left nothing for the imagination. The whole process was shown. The seeds are twisted within a ribbon of tissue paper and rolled up on little reels holding about sixty feet. As usual, the most interesting feature of the exhibit is the mechanism, by which the product is turned out. In this case the machine is a marvel of ingenuity. On one side is a reel of narrow tissue paper ribbon, resembling that of a stock-ticker. As it unrolls it passes over a wheel that is set with little projecting steel pins. These dip into liquid glue as the wheel revolves and make little dots at intervals upon the passing paper. To these moist dots the radish seed, or turnip seed or any kind of seed that is desired adheres, the spaces between the dots being determined by the kind of seed that is to be planted. The machines then folds the strip of paper over to enclose the seeds, twists it into a string and winds it upon a pasteboard reel. To plant the string there is a little long-handled wheel which the gardener pushes up and down his garden and which unrolls the string laying it in a furrow and covering it with a thin smooth layer of dirt. It is easy to see that the wind can't blow these seeds away while you are sowing them and they are also safe from marauding birds.

Everything in this palace of agriculture is calculated to impress upon the visitor the life of the future farmer is to be a life of ease. If he doesn't operate the entire farm with electric push-buttons he will at least be able to bring forth bountiful crops without the exposure and the expenditure of physical energy incident to farming in the early days. Here is an automatic time feed-box for horses which enables a farmer to lie in bed as long as he wants to in the morning. At a certain hour a clock unlooses a latch and a ration of grain runs down from a hopper in front of each horse. While the stock is being automatically fed the farmer may read his morning newspaper delivered at his door by the rural mail carrier.

Everything on the farm is to be done by machinery except the household work of the farmer's wife. I see no mechanisms that will enable her to cook the meals and operate the household machinery by pushing electric buttons. And yet some of her work has been lightened and simplified. Here are machines for separating cream from the milk and butter from the cream. The farmer's wife doesn't have to wait for cream to rise to the surface and then "churn" the butter out of it by a laborious process. The reason household work is not a push-button affair and a life of ease John says is because men have had nothing to do with it. And the farmer no longer walks. He rides. Everything seems to have wheels on it. There are manure-spreaders, corn-planters, hay-loaders and stackers, drills, pen-pickers, potato diggers, great steam plows, wind-pumps, self-binders, all tending to make farming a delightful pastime. And in addition to it all the greatest display of fancy, highly bred live stock ever brought together in the world. In the live stock pavilion we saw what seemed to be endless procession of prize-winning Herefords, Jerseys, Guernseys, Polled Durhams, Holsteins, Abercrombie Argus, Aryshires and other fancy breeds of cattle. Some of the prize-winners were literally covered with ribbons, trophies of past conquests. And yet I doubt if any one thinks of a great live stock show, the greatest ever held, in connection with the world's fair.

EYE NEARLY PUT OUT BY A PIECE OF IRON

Nine-year-old Leo Ford Receives Bad
Cut While Playing at School.

While playing at the Jefferson school this morning nine-year-old Leo Ford nearly lost his right eye. He was swinging on a rope which broke and in the fall he struck a protruding piece of iron cutting a gash under the right eye an inch and a half long. He was taken to the office of Dr. Merritt and in dressing the wound it was found the flesh was laid open to the eyeball and had the iron gone a bit farther removal of the eye would have been necessary. Leo Ford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ford who reside on Racine street.

Mary Ott

The funeral of Mary Ott aged three months was held from the home of her parents on North Bluff street this morning at nine o'clock. The Reverend Father Goebl officiated and the interment was in Oak Hill cemetery.

We are offering exceptionally good values in new fall dress goods at 50c, 75c, $1, $1.25, and $1.50. T. P. Burns.

NORMALS WILL HAVE TO PLAY TOMORROW

To Duplicate Last Week's Narrow
Football Victory—Home Team
Greatly Strengthened.

Saturday's game with the White-water normal to be played at Athletic park in this city should attract a large crowd of spectators. That it will be nip and tuck and a close victory for either team is assured. The game last Saturday was never the normal's until the last whistle blew and this week the high school boys have been training with determination to put up a contest that will surprise the visitors tomorrow. There have been two teams on the field and Coach Bartlett has gotten some new material out to fill in the weak places. The high school's ends and back field are conceded to be as good, if not better, than the normal's, and the line has been much strengthened during the last few days. Practice last night was held at athletic field, and the boys are out there again this evening. Dr. G. B. Thuermer will umpire the game.

The team will line-up as follows:
fb, D. Wright; rh, Caldwell; lb, Bennett; qb, Galbraith; ie, J. Ryan; lt, Carle; lg, F. Ryan; c, W. Seltz; rg, H. Lee; rt, Mahoney; and re, Feeley.

TWO MORE COUPLES SOUGHT THE ALTAR

John McNally of Harmony, Weds
Katharine Malone of Johnston—
Olson-Rasmussen Nuptials.

John McNally of Harmony and Miss Katharine Malone of Johnston were wedded at St. Patrick's church in Whitewater on Wednesday by Father Pierce of Milwaukee, a cousin of the bride. They are now on a honeymoon trip to Chicago and Racine and will reside in the town of Harmony after their return. The bride is a daughter of John Malone of Johnston and both the contracting parties are well and favorably known in the county.

Olson-Rasmussen
Carl Olson who came to Janesville three months ago from Copenhagen, Denmark, to work in the beet-sugar factory and Bertha Rasmussen of the same foreign city who has been in this country but a week, were married by Rev. Kvale of Orfordville at the home of P. Hamerlund, 15 Dixon street, last evening. Neither of the contracting parties can understand a word of English. All the same, best wishes are extended.

ATHLETIC PARK BEING PREPARED

For Tomorrow's Game—No Grand stand Seats for Spectators, Money or No Money.

On account of the football game tomorrow the necessary repairs were made on Athletic park this morning. The grand-stand which was torn half down last summer was left in the same shape, because the spectators at the games never use the seats. The fence was replaced where it was down and the horse gate repaired. No goal posts have as yet been put up nor has the field been marked off, but this work will be done tomorrow morning.

THE WEATHER.

Temperature last 24 hours taken from U. S. registered thermometer at Helms street: maximum: highest, 68 above; lowest, 50 above; ther, at 7 a. m., 53; at 3 p. m., 67; wind, northwest; cloudy.

FUTURE EVENTS

Whitewater Normal football team plays Janesville High school at Athletic park Saturday afternoon, Oct. 1. "Buster Brown" at Myers theatre Friday evening, Sept. 30.

THEME OF DRAMAS TRUE TO STAGE LIFE

Wife Sues for Divorce From Husband
Who Has Other Sweethearts—
Have Played Here.

Those who saw Mazie Trumbull recently in the comedy of "The Irish Pawnbrokers," will be interested in the announcement that her brother, Ollie Mack Trumbull, known on the stage as Ollie Mack, now playing in "An English Daisy," has been sued for divorce by his wife, Katherine Trumbull, an actress known on the stage as Kitty Deck. She has applied to Judge Gildersleeve in New York for $100 per week alimony and $1,000 counsel fees, pending her suit for absolute divorce.

In the complaint the wife names several correspondents, among them being Estelle West, Nellie Sylvester, "and a woman named Gertrude, employed at shooting the chutes." She says her husband has an income of $700 per week. Trumbull denies every allegation.
"Ollie Mack" Trumbull, the defendant in the case is part owner of the play of "The Irish Pawnbrokers," being associated with Joe W. Spears, husband of Mazie Trumbull.

SECRETARY SHAW CHANGES LABELS

Domestic Trade to Be Protected by Placing the Stamp Out of Sight, the Color Being Made Less Conspicuous.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw has reached a decision in the clear customs stamp case, which was taken up on account of the complaint of the American Tobacco company and other big importers of foreign cigars, who claimed that the recent order abolishing the prominent green stamps injured their business. The decision has not been made public, but it is understood to be in the way of a compromise.

The original order abolishing the big green stamps on the faces of the boxes was made because of representations of manufacturers of domestic cigars to the effect that the importers were using the stamp as a trademark and that the government was being used to foster the business of these importers to the detriment of home industry. The resulting order substituted a brown stamp, which was to be pasted out of sight on the bottom of the boxes.

Shaw Makes Statement.

The change brought forth a great cry from the importers, who claimed that the government was injuring their business to an unwarranted extent. Secretary Shaw, while declining to make public the new order, gave out a statement concerning the case.

"The testimony establishes the fact," he said, "that the present stamp is used as a trademark by the cigar importers; that this trademark is valuable to them and confers an advantage upon them as against the manufacturers of cigars in the United States, and that cigars are, in effect, the only commodity imported into the United States that receives the benefit of such a trademark."

Stamp Gives Advantage.

"In view of the fact that this government stamp, in its present form, undoubtedly gives a pecuniary advantage to those using it, it seems that the order already issued by the department is, in its essence, proper. The government's business is to collect the revenue and to provide so far as possible against fraud, but it is not the government's business to furnish a guaranty in the form of a trademark for the benefit of the goods. This should be left in the tobacco business exactly as it is in all other business."

"The result of the decision will protect the domestic manufacturer from a customs stamp, available as an advertisement, and it protects the importer also by giving him a stamp of a distinctive color, which can be seen by the purchaser if he cares to make examination."

Will Make New Plates.
The secretary has given orders that new plates be prepared for printing the stamps and for placing upon the boxes of imported cigars, in accordance with this decision.

While the secretary was away from Washington Acting Secretary Taylor conducted a complete hearing, taking the testimony of both sides. Reports of these proceedings were forwarded to Secretary Shaw. On his return he took up the case and after a consultation with the president rendered his decision.

HERD LIKED THE TASTE OF SPRING

Drank Too Much After Gorging on Green Corn in the Fields.

Two of the fine herd of cattle belonging to Arthur Horn of La Prairie are dead as a result of gorging themselves in a neighboring corn-field and the owner is to be congratulated that the balance are still in the land of the living. The cows, after browsing in the corn for several hours, made their way to the water-tanks where they also drank more than was good for them. Before the owner discovered the escape from the pasture and reached the animals, two valued at $80, fell down and died in great agony.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Pleasant Surprise: Mr. Funk, who very recently moved to his new and handsome home on Western avenue, was pleasantly surprised last evening by about fifty of his friends. The occasion was Mr. Funk's fifty-ninth birthday anniversary. During the evening a delightful musical program was discussed, both vocal and instrumental. Mr. Funk was presented with several beautiful and useful presents as a token of the esteem in which he is held.

Marriage Licenses have been issued to Albert Worth of Jefferson and Margaret McQuillan of Milton Junction, and to Leonard Cook of Milwaukee and Caroline Liston of Orfordville.

Surprise for Burr Tolles: Thursday evening a large party of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs invaded the suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. Burr W. Tolles and informed their host that they had come to help celebrate his birthday anniversary. During the evening a merry and enjoyable program was given. The invaders had come laden with their lunch baskets and later in the evening a delightful repast was served. Good night was said at a late hour and the guests departed wishing their host many happy returns of the day.

The Stead Talked: Just at noon today a horse driven by George Gower crossed his front legs and settled down on the Milwaukee street bridge street car tracks to await a coming car. The driver and a companion got out and pushed the animal off the tracks by main force. No amount of urging, however, could persuade him to move of his own volition. Finally a bystander lifted up one of the front hoofs, tapped it with a stone, thereby getting the horse's "thoughts" away from the obstinate whim that possessed them, and the beast moved forward again. The animal's breast was raw and sore from the chafing of the harness and after seeing this the sympathy of bystanders was all with the horse.

Mystic Workers Entertain: After the regular meeting of the Mystic Workers next Tuesday night there will be an entertainment for the members and their families. All are invited.

Back at His Post: County Clerk Frank Starr resumed his duties at the court-house yesterday after a protracted illness incident to an operation. His many friends are glad to see him back at his post again.

Marriage License: A marriage license was issued today to Richard W. Blakey of Shawnee Pottawatomie county, Oklahoma, and Miss Jean S. White of Porter.

Chicago Inter Ocean: The grown persons who are aiding the rebellion of high school boys in defense of their so-called "fraternities" might be in much better business. For young men away from home and at college the college fraternity has its uses in surrounding its members with some of the influences of home. But to a boy living at home, the so-called "fraternity" is useless in every way. The school board has abolished these organizations for good reasons, and it is to be hoped that the courts will not interfere with necessary discipline in the schools.

Fond du Lac Reporter: One of the chief objections to the proposed primary election law that is to be submitted to the voters of the state for their approval at the general election in November is that the primaries of one party are at the mercy of the members of other parties. There is absolutely no guard against frauds of this description. The members of one party, which is having no strife of moment over nominations may vote the ticket of the other party in large enough numbers to influence the result, and there is nothing to prevent it. There is a case already on record in Minnesota in a previous campaign where that was

BAPTIST CHURCH'S HOME GATHERING

Was Attended by Over Four Hundred Last Night—Church Has 622 Members.

Four hundred participated in the annual Home Gathering of the First Baptist church members last evening. Supper was served by the ladies in the Sunday school rooms and following the repast a program was given which proved of absorbing interest to every member. The congregation now has a total membership of 622 and the local church will be sixty years old on the thirtieth of October. Mrs. A. H. Murdoch who has been identified with the church for fifty-six years is the oldest living member. She was present at the festivities last evening, as were Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Dearborn and Miss Amanda Herkimer who also date their membership back many decades. Others present who had been members of the church either here or elsewhere for fifty years or more were: Mrs. Fannie Smith, Miss Laila Hopkins of California, Mrs. O. J. Treat, and Mrs. Rachel Merry.

After a number by the orchestra, the pastor, Rev. R. M. Vaughan, spoke, entertainingly of "Our Church." The other topics and speakers were: "Pen Points" by J. T. Fitchett, "Color Bearers" by F. J. Bailey, "Snows" by W. E. Clinton; "We Did It: Sunday School" by L. K. Crissey; "Mission Circle" by Mrs. B. F. Dunwiddie; "Farther Lights" by Mrs. J. T. Fitchett; "Helpful Circle" by Miss Jessie Grove; "The Goto Church Band" by Miss Irene Van Frank; "Readers' Guild" by Miss Florence McDonald; "The Men's Class" by Frank Sadler; "The King's Daughters" by Mrs. F. P. Welch; "Ladies' Aid Society" by Mrs. J. P. Wright; "Grace, Gift, and Gumption" by Ernest Clark; "My Scrap Book" by Mrs. A. C. Campbell, and "Light at Evening Time" by Miss Amanda Herkimer. Readings were given by Miss Florence Breece and Miss Irma Shoemaker.

Officers were elected as follows: Sunday school superintendent, L. K. Crissey; assistants, W. H. Rose, G. A. Crossman, and Mrs. C. D. Childs; Sunday school secretary and treasurer, A. C. TAINTED BLOOD

Columbus, Ohio, May 19, 1903.
Some four years ago I was suffering from impure blood and a general run-down condition of the system. I had no appetite, was losing flesh, and had an all-gone tired feeling that made me miserable. I began the use of S. S. S., and after taking seven or eight bottles my skin was cleared of all eruptions and took on a ruddy, healthy glow that assured me that my blood had been restored to its normal, healthy condition. My appetite was restored, as I could eat anything put before me, and as I regained my appetite I increased in weight, and that "tired feeling" which worried me so much disappeared, and I was once again my old self. I heartily recommend S. S. S. as the best blood purifier and tonic made, and strongly advise its use to all those in need of such medicine. VICTOR STRUMER, Cor. Barthman and Washington Aves.

Wheeling, W. V., May 28, 1903.
My system was run down and my joints ached and pained me considerably. I had used S. S. S. before and knew what it was, so I purchased a bottle of it and have taken several bottles and the aches and pains are gone, my blood has been cleansed and my general health built up. I can testify to it as a blood purifier and tonic. 1533 Market St. JOHN C. SKRIN.

If you have any symptoms of disordered blood write us and our physicians will advise you free. Our book on blood and skin diseases sent free. The Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Choir practice will be held at Mr. E. Raymond's next Saturday evening.

PORTER.

Porter, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Wm. Bass, of Emerald Grove, is spending a week with her son Frank and family. Willie Tlerman is attending school in Janesville.

Kittle Dooley has been quite ill but is able to attend school again.

Mr. A. Hubbell does not improve as fast as his friends would wish him to.

N. A. Pond, of Janesville, was out on Saturday.

W. Mosher's family returned from the world's fair Sunday.

Everyone is enjoying the fine weather.

UNION.

Union, Sept. 29.—Farmers in this vicinity are quite discouraged over corn cutting on account of the rain.

Will Becker spent Sunday in Madison.

Adam Apfel has completed his new barn.

Frank and Attollee Frost are attending school at Madison.

Floyd Bannay is laid up with a fractured arm.

Dr. Brigham's house is occupied by a young married man, who is working for Leslie Davis.

Carl Brunzell bought a nice bunch of lambs to feed of Elmer Ross.

Read These Reasons

A correspondent of the Gazette handed to the editor a paper containing objections to the primary election law as follows:

"Because the voters cannot have personal knowledge of the comparative fitness of candidates with whom they are not acquainted and are in danger of voting for persons who are unworthy of trust and who would not if known, command their confidence and support.

"Because the system necessarily keeps out of office everybody but office seekers, and tends to swell the number of that class.

"Because the expense of making a canvass to secure a nomination is a practical bar to the poor man.

"Because it gives the rich an advantage over the poor.

"Because it authorizes nominations by minorities which, in case of a large number of candidates for one office, may be only a small fraction of the voters.

"Because it subjects the people to the annoyance and burden of two campaigns instead of one.

"Because it secures to men in office a manifest advantage over new men and prevents rotation.

"Because it takes from the people the right to draft their own platforms and confers that power on candidates, which is putting the cart before the horse. The people should never surrender the authority to make their own platforms and require the candidates to stand on them and carry them out.

"Because the abrogation of the state convention means the disintegration and disruption of party organization.

"Because it enables men who could not get a home endorsement to seek office with the same prospect of success as men in good standing, if they have the money to place their workers in the field.

"Because it legalizes and sanctions office seeking and tends to increase the army of candidates, already much too large.

"Because it practically shuts out busy men and business men who cannot and will not spend the time and money to secure nominations.

"Because a system that makes nominations expensive tends directly to demoralize and graft.

"Because it lowers the standard of citizenship when its nominations can be secured by the free use of money in hiring brokers to circulate petitions and peddle tickets and in subsidizing mercenary newspapers.

"Because it is the absurd and ganatical use of an agency which has undoubted merit, on the same principle as giving the ballot to men, women, and children because it is a good thing."

The Yellow Holly

By FERGUS HUME,
Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," Etc.

Copyright, 1905, by C. W. Dillingham Company.

It was of no great size, with one window, which looked out on to the square. This was locked, and, even if it had not been, no one could have climbed in, as Quex saw that the area was below. "And madame chained the area gate every night with her own hands," explained Miss Bull, who was watching him.

The inspector turned suddenly toward her. "It seems to me that the deceased was overcautious. Was she afraid?"

"I think she was," admitted Miss Bull. "She had a habit of looking over her shoulder and, as I have stated, was particularly so to bolts and bars. But she was a secretive woman and never said anything to me about her fears, if she had any."

Madame was still in the black silk dress which she wore on the previous night. Seated at the round center table, she had evidently been struck from behind and killed before she had time to cry out. Her arms were on the table and her head had fallen forward. The furniture of the room was not in disorder; the red tablecloth was not even ruffled. The murder had been committed without haste or noise, as Quex pointed out to Miss Bull.

"Whosoever murdered her must have been a friend," said he.

"It doesn't seem a friendly act to kill a defenseless woman," said Miss Bull, looking coldly on the limp figure.

"You don't quite understand. What I mean is that Mrs. Jersey knew the person who killed her."

Miss Bull shook her head. "I don't agree with you," she observed, and Quex was astonished that she should dare to contradict. "She was struck from behind before she had time to turn her head."

"Quite so. But the assassin must have entered the room, and unless the deceased was deaf"—

"Madame had particularly sharp ears."

"Then that makes it all the more certain. Had any one unexpected entered she would have been on the alert; there would have been a struggle. Now, we see that the furniture is not disturbed; therefore we can argue from this that Mrs. Jersey was in a friendly conversation with the assassin. She was seated at the table and the assassin was at her back, which shows a certain amount of trust. In fact, Miss Bull, the person who committed this murder was the last person Mrs. Jersey expected to hurt her in any way."

"I understand. But I don't fancy that madame had any friends. She was a woman who kept very much to herself."

"Do you know anything of her past?" "Absolutely nothing. She took this house some fourteen or fifteen years ago, I believe. I have been here ten and was very comfortable, save that madame and I disagreed on many points. She was always rude to me, and I don't think she was a lady," Miss Bull drew herself up. "My father was a general," she declared proudly.

But Quex was too busy examining the room to attend to Miss Bull's family history. He searched for the weapon with which the crime had been committed, but could find none. There was no blood on the furniture, although some had trickled down from the wound on to the tablecloth. The blow must have been struck strongly and surely and with the power of a deadly hatred. It was at this moment that the doctor arrived, and, turning the body over to him, Quex conducted Miss Bull back to the drawing room, where he examined all who were in the house.

The first witness examined was Margery, and she refused to open her mouth unless she was asked by Miss Bull. The old maid held Margery's hand and coaxed her into answering when she proved recalcitrant. Quex could not but admire the way in which Miss Bull managed the lumpish creature.

"You left the drawing room with this lady?" he asked, indicating Miss Bull and speaking in a persuasive tone. "Yes. We played patience in Miss Bull's bedroom."

"At what time did you leave?" "About 11—just before it."

"Did the clock strike the hour when you were in your own bedroom?" "No," said Margery, trying to collect her wits, "when I was in the passage."

"What were you doing in the passage? It would only take you a few minutes to get to your room, would it not?"

"Yes," put in Miss Bull. "My bedroom is on the second floor, and Margery's is on the fourth, right above my head. You could easily have got to your room before the clock struck, Margery."

"I did try to," admitted the girl, "but my aunt kept me talking."

Quex sat up. "Did you speak to your aunt at that hour?"

"Yes. She met me walking up to my room and scolded me for being out of bed at that hour. I said I had been with Miss Bull, and my aunt said that every one was in bed but me, and that she would not have it. The clock struck 11, and she called me names. She then took me by the arm and pushed me into my room and locked the door. Yes, she did," nodded Margery vindictively; "she locked the door."

"Why did she do that?" asked Quex, staring.

"I don't know. I wasn't doing anything," grumbled Margery; "but she said she wouldn't have me wandering about the house at all hours of the night and locked me in. I couldn't get out this morning till Miss Bull let me out."

"Margery usually brings me my cup of tea," explained Miss Bull, "and as she did not come this morning as usual I was anxious. When the alarm came I went to look for Margery in her room. The key was in the door, but the door was locked. I released Margery."

"Oh, the key was in the door," mused Quex. "It would seem, then, that the deceased simply turned the key and left it. Humpf! I wonder why she locked the girl in?"

Miss Bull shrugged her thin shoulders. "It was spite on her part," she said. "Madame never cared to see Margery with me."

While Quex was thus examining the witnesses Train and Brendon were seated in the sitting room of the former discussing the crime. Brendon was gloomy, for in the unexpected death of Mrs. Jersey he saw the downfall of his hopes of proving his legitimacy.

"There's no chance of my marrying Dorothy now," he said, with a sigh. "I'll remain plain George Brendon to the end of my days, and a bachelor at that."

"It's awful!" gasped Leonard, who was white and haggard. "I never expected that my search for types would lead me into the neighborhood of a tragedy. Who could have killed her?"

"I can't say."

"I wonder if her death has anything to do with your affairs?"

Brendon looked up suddenly and with a stern, flushed face. "Train," he said sharply, "whatever you do, say nothing about what I told you last night."

"Yes. But what you told me might lead to the discovery of the assassin."

"I don't care if it does," said Brendon angrily and rising to his feet to emphasize his determination; "you are to keep my confidence."

"Oh, I shan't say anything. But do you think?"

"I think nothing. But I am sure that my affairs have nothing to do with this death. I came to see Mrs. Jersey, and this morning I should have had the truth out of her. But she is dead, and so all my projects go to the four winds. But I don't want them spoken of."

"You can depend upon me," said Leonard, dominated by the strong will of his friend. "But who could have?"

"I tell you I don't know," cried George restlessly. "How you do harp on that subject!"

"It is the subject of the hour," retorted Train.

"And a most unpleasant one. Here I shall have to remain until that police officer questions me."

"What story will you tell?"

"Any story but the one I told you," retorted Brendon.

"Well," said Leonard, after a pause, "you can rely upon me. I shall not say anything to get you into trouble."

Brendon laughed, but not pleasantly. "My good fellow, I have done nothing wrong. Even if my tale were told I could not be accused of having to do anything with this murder."

"Oh, I didn't mean that for one moment," protested Train uneasily.

"I know you didn't. Nevertheless if this police inspector knew what I told you he might get it into his stupid head that well"—Brendon broke off abruptly—"I don't know what he might think. However, I shall answer his questions as to my visit here and then go away."

"I'll go also," said Train, with a shudder. "I can't stop here after what has occurred. It's terrible. To think of that poor woman murdered! How lucky I looked my door last night!"

Brendon stopped in his walk and looked sharply at the young man. "Why did you lock your door?" he asked, surprised.

"Well, you see, after Mrs. Jersey came into the sitting room I didn't like to think of her prowling about. One is so helpless when one is asleep," and Train shuddered.

"Did you expect her to murder you?" asked Brendon derisively.

"I didn't expect anything," retorted Leonard, rather nettled. "But I didn't want her to come into my room, so I got out of bed and locked the sitting room door."

"Not your bedroom door?"

"No, the sitting room door. So both you and I were quite safe from her prying."

Brendon looked steadily at Train and gave a short laugh. "Yes. As you locked the sitting room door she could as little enter as you or I could go out. Leonard"—he paused and pinched his lip—"I do not think it will be wise for you to tell the inspector this."

"Why not? You and I are innocent."

"That goes without saying," answered George sharply. "But the less we have to do with this unpleasant matter the better. I suppose we, in common with every one else here, will be called to give evidence at the inquest. Once that is done and Mrs. Jersey is safely buried I wash my hands of the whole affair."

Train shuddered. "So do I," said he. "I am the last man in the world to wish to pursue the subject. But who can be guilty? It must be some one in the house!"

"I suppose so," replied Brendon, "unless Mrs. Jersey had a visitor last night."

"She might have had," said Leonard. "When I locked the sitting room door, and that was about half past 11, I think I heard the closing of the front door."

"The deuce you did?"

"Yes. I put my head out, and listened to see if all was quiet. I distinctly heard the front door close."

"She must have had a visitor," said Brendon thoughtfully. "Yet as she alone could have let that visitor out, and as she must have been alive to do so, the visitor cannot be the assassin."

"The visitor might have killed her and then have closed the door himself."

"Humpf! How do you know the visitor was a man? It might have been a woman. Besides, Miss Bull told me that the door was locked as usual, and that she took the key this morning to open it from Mrs. Jersey's pocket."

No, Train, the person who killed Mrs. Jersey is in the house. But were I you I should say as little as possible to the inspector about this."

Leonard took this advice and when questioned simply stated that he had retired to bed at 11 and had heard nothing. Brendon made a similar statement, and Quex saw no reason to doubt their evidence.

He questioned all the boarders and all the servants, but could learn nothing likely to throw any light on the darkness which concealed the crime. No one had heard a noise in the night, no one had heard a scream, and it was conclusively proved that every one in the house was in bed by 11 o'clock, the majority, indeed, before that hour.

Margery, who saw madame at the striking of that hour, was the last person to see her alive. Mrs. Jersey went to her own sitting room and there had been struck down.

"It was about 12 o'clock that she was stabbed," said the doctor after he had made his examination, "but I can go only by the condition of the body. I should say a little before or after 12. She was stabbed in the neck with a sharp instrument."

"With a knife?" said the inspector.

"No," rejoined the doctor decisively. "It was with a dagger—by a kind of stiletto. It was not by an ordinary knife that the wound was inflicted."

"I can't say."

"With a knife?" said the inspector.

"No," rejoined the doctor decisively. "It was with a dagger—by a kind of stiletto. It was not by an ordinary knife that the wound was inflicted."

"I can't say."

RUSSELL SAGE SETTLES SUIT

Gives Janitor's Widow $750 in Place of $50,000 Asked.

New York, Sept. 30.—Russell Sage has done an unusual thing. He gave Mrs. Bridget Kane $750 in settlement of a damage suit for $50,000. Mrs. Kane alleged that Mr. Sage was the owner of the house where she resides and where her husband was the janitor. While descending the stairway from the street to the basement her husband's foot caught on the first step and he fell into the area way. The result alleged for his fall, from the results of which he subsequently died, was that the top step of the staircase was broken. The defective condition was alleged to be due to the carelessness and negligence of Mr. Sage and his agents and employees.

MAN BURNS HIMSELF TO DEATH.

Charred Remains Supposedly of a St. Louis Suicide Are Discovered.

Shawneetown, Ill., Sept. 30.—While hunting in the woods near here George Porter, a farmer, found a part of a human skeleton and the charred remains of clothing lying in a pile of ashes. Hanging on a nearby tree was a coat, in the pocket of which was a note signed by W. W. Martin of St. Louis, who disappeared from his home in St. Louis about a month ago, stating that the writer contemplated suicide by cremation, and that on that spot would be found the result of the attempt. William W. Martin was 27 years old and a civil engineer of promise. In October a year ago he suffered a mental breakdown.

Horrible torture of children

Thousands of Mothers, every night, watch the fevered unrest and the awful torture their babes and children undergo when appear on their little bodies and faces. Immediately they imagine the child's blood is impure or poisoned, and begin to dose an already over-worked stomach with vile and noxious drugs, when as a matter of fact the disease is not in the blood, but solely in the skin.

Rashes, blotches, pimples and breakings out.

Stop and reason for yourselves!

If the disease is carried in the blood, why do not those sensitive organs, the Heart and Lungs, through which all the blood of the body passes, become diseased, the same as the Skin.

Don't dose the stomach! Treat the skin.

These Rashes, Blotches, Pimples and Breakings out are given the general name of Eczema

The Itch King.

It is purely and simply a local disease and entirely confined to the Skin, and in no instance is it the result of impure or poisoned blood. This disease is caused by thousands of little germs which burrow into the outside skin and their ravages there result in the sores, the fiery itching and burning sensations experienced by sufferers from this disease. The only successful treatment for ECZEMA is by External or Local Applications.

Our confidence in the D. D. D. Remedy

So many astonishingly effective and permanent cures have been made by this wonderful Skin Disease Remedy (The D. D. D. Prescription), that we are absolutely convinced it will conquer any and all diseases of the Skin and Scalp.

ILLEGAL CORPORATIONS

President's Action in Enforcing Law Against Them.

[Northwestern Christian Advocate, Sept. 20.]

In holding large corporations to strict accountability to the law the president is serving the best interests of those corporations, as well as conserving the welfare of the country. All corporations which are operating on an unlawful basis should be compelled to conform to the law. If they cannot or will not they should go out of business. This, some have been forced by the lawless conduct of their promoters and operators to do, to the great loss of their stockholders. Many formerly wealthy men are now broken in fortune because corporations with which they were connected were formed and operated in violation of law. The action of the president in enforcing the law would prevent, not promote, such losses.

One of the crying needs of America today is such respect for the laws of the nation as the president has shown. He did not make the laws, but it is his duty to obey them. He has set an example which every citizen should follow. If that be done, we shall hear no more of mobs breaking into jails, defying police and militia, and laming or burning prisoners suspected or convicted of crime, and burning property in a wild frenzy of disorder and lawlessness.

The Germans are usually found on the side of good government. They carry into the service of the state the same wholesome, practical ideas of economy and loyalty to trust which they practice in their domestic affairs. They hold public officials to a high accountability, and this is well.—Senator Fairbanks at Indianapolis, Sept. 3, 1890.

RURAL FREE DELIVERY

[Philadelphia Press.]

The experiment of rural free delivery was begun under Democratic administration by a Democratic initiative.—Philadelphia Record.

What a cool and monumental whopper! Is it really a lack of knowledge or an opulence of campaign imagination? As a matter of fact President Cleveland in his messages actually opposed rural free delivery. Nevertheless, congress made a small appropriation of $10,000 to test the feasibility of establishing a system of free mail delivery in rural districts. But Cleveland's postmaster general, Mr. Hissell, refused to apply it or make the attempt. The appropriation was renewed, and Mr. Hissell's successor, Postmaster General William L. Wilson, equally refused to use it.

It was not until President McKinley's administration that any practical attempt was made to organize rural free delivery, and then the movement was taken up so thoroughly, efficiently and faithfully that while he was president about 8,000 rural delivery routes were established, and the system was created and made as permanent a part of the postal service as free city delivery. There are now more than 20,000 routes in operation and the whole work from the beginning has been done under Republican administration. The Record must have got its information by way of Shanghai or Chefoo or Tom Taggart.

In the bitterness of its irony over the unassailable strength of President Roosevelt's letter of acceptance, the New York Times exclaims, "he has done absolutely the right thing, the very best thing upon every government occasion, and with assured confidence he promises to keep on so doing. He has made no mistakes; he will make none." This is meant for irony of the real hot kind that comes from gnawing on a file. But the question is not whether President Roosevelt's course has always been absolutely impeccable, but what different course could the Democrats have pursued on these government occasions that would not have landed us in the fogs, fears and mazes of national demoralization and impotence?

Judge Parker is in training in earnest for Nov. 8. On the occasion of his trip to New York to consult Hill, Sherman, Murphy, McCarren and Gorman about superseding Tom Taggart as campaign manager, the New York Times correspondent described him as "going on a swift drive down the rocky hill road to the dock." In November there will be no elegantly equipped steam yacht to receive him at the bottom of the hill—only a gaping hole labeled "oblivion."

This country is now in a high state of prosperity. Never before did all the economic forces work together so unitedly for national welfare and prosperity as during the last few years. Would it be wise to exchange that condition for one not merely of uncertainty but of almost certain disaster?

Talk about political economy. The Democrats of Massachusetts are considering the advisability of nominating Douglas, the Brockton shoe man, in order to save money on campaign lithographs, because the pictures of Parker and Douglas are as like as two wooden shoepegs.

With both Republican factions guaranteeing the electoral vote in Wisconsin to Roosevelt, another iridescent rainbow dream of the Democracy goes glimmering into the realms of perpetual night.

Under the Wilson low tariff exports increased $91,000,000; in three years under the Hingley tariff they increased $155,000,000.
